AMUSEMENTS.

AT THE ODEON.

THE GREATEST LIVING CURIOSITY IN THE WORLD! For three days only! Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday—June 22d, 24th, and 25th.

Mr. Almon, who has visited many of the principal southern cities, has been pronounced by all scientific and medical gentlemen who have seen him, the greatest curiosity, the most remarkable lusus natures, of which they have had any knowledge.

Some of the peculiarities of Mr. Almon's physical formation are, that one hand resembles the claw of a bird, the other resembles the claw of a crab. He has parts of roundings, with some portion of the pirific with only three toes in all. The remainder of his body is in good form, and he enjoys excellent health.

It is worth the while of any person, anxious to see a most remarkable freak of nature in the formation of Mr. Almon's limbs, to pay him a call. He was born in the county of Rowan, in North Carolina, where his parents still reside. He is now 22 years of age, and remarkably active and regorous.

More of the Doherty Case.—The excitement in the case of Rev. J. J. Doherty, the alleged seducer of Miss Monaghan, at Springfield, Mass., remains unabated. A great meeting of the Catholics was held on Monday evening, to take measures to procure from the Bishop of the diocese Mr. Doherty's expulsion from the pastoral office, or at least a removal from the pastoral relation to the church in that town. The friends of Doherty attempted to create a disturbance, but a leader was promptly arrested by the police and taken to prison, after which the meeting was more quiet. Resolutions were passed, condemning as false a statement of case which was made to the society by Mr. Do-herty the day before, and asking his expulsion by the Bishop. A committee of six was ap-pointed to proceed to Boston, to wait upon the Bishop for that purpose.

In reference to this case the Springfield Post publishes the following document:

"Memorandum of settlement of the case Monaghan vs. Doherty, June 11, 1851. Defendant to pay $1,600, as follows: $400 cash, $400 note in four months, well endorsed; $800 notes secured by mortgage. To sign declara-tion as agreed upon. Plaintiff to sign discharge of suit, and plaintiff and daughter to discharge the bastardy suit, and nonsuit and default to be entered in both cases, and counsel to sign discharge of bastardy suit. George Ashmur and Henry Morris, for plaintiff; Wm. G. Bate and Ephraim Bond, for defendant.
